

ON TV THIS WEEK

SUNDAY, APRIL 8

■ "The Masters" The final round of golf at Augusta. Will Phil Mickelson hold on to the green jacket or will Tiger Woods add another one to his collection? (CBS, 2:30 p.m.)

▶ "The Sopranos" Tony turns 47, the series is six (seasons) and it's all boiling over to a finale. If creator David Chase can meet the sky-high expectations even halfway with these last episodes, it'll be a great ending. (HBO, 9 p.m.)

■ "Masterpiece Theatre: The Wind in the Willows"

The latest adaptation of the children's classic stars Bob Hoskins and Imelda Staunton. (PBS, 9 p.m.)

■ "Entourage" From "Aquaman" to an Edith Wharton project? Life is very different for Vince (Adrian Grenier) now that he has a hot new agent (Carla Gugino). But will he enjoy turning 30? He will if Turtle's (Jerry Ferrara) party for him is as outrageous as planned. (HBO, 10 p.m.)

MONDAY, APRIL 9

■ "Late Show With David Letterman"

Presidential hopeful Barack Obama sits with Dave. A good performance here is better than millions in political ads. (CBS, 11:30 p.m.)

■ "Thank God You're Here" A sketch improv show in which actors are thrown into scenes without a clue as to what's going on or how their character should behave. Former "NewsRadio" star Dave Foley is the judge. (NBC, 9 p.m.)

■ "American Experience: Jonestown — The Life and Death of Peoples Temple" A new documentary about Jim Jones and one of the most notorious cults in history, which ended with the mass suicide of more than 900 people. (PBS, 9 p.m.)

TUESDAY, APRIL 10

■ "American Idol" The guest stars are a lot flashier this season, with Gwen Stefani and Tony Bennett followed by Jennifer Lopez, who will coach the eight remaining contestants tonight and perform a song Wednesday from her first Spanish-language album. (Fox, 8 p.m.)

■ "Boston Legal" This legal drama, just renewed for another season, mocks "The Secret" by having Denny (William Shatner) try to use the power of positive thinking to bring Raquel Welch into his life. (ABC, 10 p.m.)

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11

■ "Friday Night Lights" On a show that's never really been "about" high school football, the first (and hopefully not last) season ends with a state championship. (NBC, 8 p.m.)

■ "Criminal Minds" Always an angel, Kate Jackson guest-stars as a tough ambassador to Russia tracking down an immigrant who's been kidnapped. (CBS, 9 p.m.)

■ "American Idol" The results show has expanded back to an hour. Why? Because you can't rush J.Lo (who sings tonight). (Fox, 9 p.m.)

THURSDAY, APRIL 12

■ "My Name Is Earl" Lovable lump Randy (Ethan Suplee) decides he has lived in Earl's shadow too long and tries to generate a little good karma for himself. (NBC, 8 p.m.)

■ "ER" In the first new episode since February, Sam (Linda Cardellini) is heartbroken about being away from her son on her birthday, but an annoying photographer (Annabella Sciorra) gives her a chance to vent. (NBC, 10 p.m.)

FRIDAY, APRIL 13

■ "SpongeBob SquarePants" The reason for the long-running feud between Plankton and Mr. Krabs is revealed. Part of a "SpongeBob" marathon that starts at 5 p.m. and ends at 10, because then it's your bedtime. (Nickelodeon, 8 p.m.)

SATURDAY, APRIL 14

■ "Saturday Night Live" Shia LaBeouf hosts. Musical guest: Avril Lavigne. (NBC, 11:30 p.m.)
