

ON TV THIS WEEK

SUNDAY, JULY 29

■ "The Kill Point" In this hostage-crisis miniseries, FBI negotiator Donnie Wahlberg must step aside after he's shown up by the mastermind, Mr. Host (John Leguizamo); meanwhile, a rich businessman plays ball with the baddies to rescue his daughter. Like Sartre's "No Exit," but with guns. (Spike, 9 p.m.)

MONDAY, JULY 30

■ "Greek" A dork trying to get into a cool frat, a Christian roommate who's taken an oath of abstinence and a barely closeted pledge secretly dating his "big brother" are just some of the plots on this soapy new drama. Frankly, we miss food fights and shouts of "Toga! Toga! Toga!" (ABC Family, 9 p.m.)

TUESDAY, JULY 31

■ "Damages" Glenn Close is a high-powered lawyer and Rose Byrne is her protege in TV's hot new drama. (FX, 10 p.m.)

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 1

■ "American Inventor" The three finalists give one last pitch for their oddball inventions, as viewers vote and the winner gets $1 million. What would Edison make? (ABC, 9 p.m.)

THURSDAY, AUGUST 2

■ "X Games" The latest edition of the X Games kicks off in L.A. with skateboarding and "coolest stunt" events. Trust us, it's more entertaining than you think. (ESPN, 9 p.m.)

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3

■ "Doctor Who" The Daleks are back and lurking around New York in the '30s, as the Doctor (David Tennant) fights his greatest foes in this two-parter. (Sci-Fi, 9 p.m.)

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4

■ "Masters of Science Fiction" Stephen Hawking introduces episodes of this "Twilight Zone"-style anthology series, starting with this story of a man (Sam Waterston) in 2031 who thinks it's 2007. (ABC, 10 p.m.)

Michael Giltz