Grey's Anatomy: Season One

★★★

Touchstone, $29.99

IT'S quickly devolved into an "ER" spectacle, with the Super Bowl episode a perfect example of overkill. This show works best when sticking to its appealing cast (including Patrick Dempsey, Sandra Oh and Chandra Wilson) — not coming up with outlandish stunts. Extras include commentaries, outtakes and a making-of on the pilot.

All the President's Men: Special Edition

★★★★

Warner Bros., $29.99

TALK about timing. As if current congressional investigations into the executive branch wiretapping phones without warrants weren't enough, this special edition of the 1976 classic comes hard on the heels of the revelation about the real Deep Throat. Extras include commentary from Robert Redford, a making-of on the movie and a featurette on Deep Throat.

Proof

★

Miramax, $29.99

GWYNETH Paltrow doesn't do sarcastic. Earnest, yes. Passionate, sure. But sarcastic isn't a natural for her, while it is the bread and butter of Mary Louise Parker, who originated this role of a brilliant mathematician onstage. Ultimately, "Proof" may simply have been too stogy, but we'll never know. Jake Gyllenhaal co-stars as the hottest math geek in history.

'PROOF' POSITIVE: Stars Paltrow and Gyllenhaal kiss up.

Metropolitan

★★★

Criterion, $39.95

A BRITTLE comedy of privileged young people in Manhattan as seen through the eyes of a relative pauper. In 1990, it launched the career of writer-director Whit Stillman, who followed with the even better "Barcelona" (1994). He's well overdue for another film. Extras include commentary, deleted scenes and alternate casting possibilities.
