

Camp Classic: Christina, Darling

MOMMIE DEAREST author Christina Crawford (right) proves she's come to terms with her painful childhood and the over-the-top film adaptation of her tell-all by hosting "Christmas With Christina Crawford" at the Castro Theatre in San Francisco on Dec. 19. The event promises a parade of Joan Crawford look-alikes, but don't expect Christina, who now owns a farm in Idaho, to be among them. Crawford, age 58, doesn't really understand the appeal of dressing up as her shoulder-padded mom. "But then, I don't like Halloween either." Nor will you find her in the audience during the screening of Faye Dunaway's scenery-chewing masterpiece. "Neither she nor I care to say too much about it." Not to mention wire hangers.
